Apprenticeship

In partnership with the Open Tech Los Angeles Regional Apprenticeship Collaborative, this apprenticeship program is setting a goal to train 1,000 at-risk youth for careers in high-growth technology and biotechnology jobs.

The innovation at the heart of its new model is the Talent Incubator, a for-profit social enterprise that creates embedded training models for individuals, like at-risk youth, who need a customized training program in order to succeed.

Course Curriculum Includes:

-- up-to -2000 hours on the job learning some paid slots for eligible students

– up-to 400 hours minimum (unpaid) classroom training leading to an industry recognized credential

You will receive:

– College Credit will be given for eligible training courses
– DOL will issue a completion certificate equivalent to college degree
